New Molloy College Course Offering: The New York Art World: Galleries, Artists and Museums

Molloy College is pleased to announce a new intersession course called “The New York Art World: Galleries, Artists and Museums.” The course, which runs through January 13, provides students with the opportunity to visit contemporary art galleries, museums and artists’ studios.

“The program offers an intensive, intimate, insider’s view of the contemporary art world in New York City,” explained Ronald Morosan, Adjunct Instructor of Art and Art History at Molloy College. “Thanks to sponsorship of the New York Foundation for the Arts, students will go to private studios of award-winning artists to see and discuss their work. It is a unique opportunity.”

The course will showcase the work of the following artists:

- Kamrooz Aram
- Mickendree Key
- Margot Spindelman
- Joshua Stern
- George Rush
- Hyemi Cho
- Stephen Mueller

All of these artists are 2004 Artist Fellowship recipients of the New York State Foundation for the Arts (NYFA). This presentation is co-sponsored by Artists and Audiences Exchange, a NYFA public program.
