Molloy College Science Fair Showcases High School Biology Research

Drew Bogner, President of Molloy College is pleased to announce the 3rd annual Molloy College Science Fair. The Fair will be held on March 18, 2005 in the Gymnasium of Quealy Hall, Molloy College.

"The purpose of the fair is to give 9th and 10th graders in Nassau County the opportunity to exhibit their Biology research projects and to compete for prizes," remarked Professor Grace Matzen, Science Fair Coordinator. "The Biology/Chemistry/Environmental Studies Department is pleased to afford these high school students the chance to show our judges the fine quality of their research."

The Molloy College Science Fair continues to grow since the inaugural Fair in 2003 which hosted 70 projects from 105 students. This year, 117 projects will be on display created by 170 students working independently or in teams of two. All projects will be graded for future recognition at the Awards Ceremony to be held on May 6, 2005 at 3:30 p.m. in the Multi-Purpose Room, Wilbur Arts Center, Molloy College.
